OUTLINE

I currently work as an assistant professor at Eotvos University, Budapest. Since 2007, I have been a member of the LIGO Scientific Collaboration \(LSC\), which is a worldwide community of scientists working in various fields of gravitational-wave physics.

My research interests include gravitational-wave astrophysics, multi-messenger astronomy, compact objects, gamma-ray bursts, and various aspects of signal and image processing.

My professional skills range from scientific theory and computer programming to machine shop practice and building electronics.

I have learned teamwork and scientific management skills by leading the data analysis efforts of the LSC group at Eotvos University, Hungary, since 2007.

I have been demonstrating my active commitment to scientific outreach by giving public lectures, popularizing science through media appearances, and mentoring students at many academic levels.

I am an amateur cartoon-, stencil-, and photo artist. My works of art have been shown at Hungarian and international exhibitions. In 2010, I won first prize in the most prestigious billboard art competition in Hungary.

I have watched every TED talk since May 2011. I regularly do volunteer work at the children's house of the Saint Francis Foundation in Deva, Transylvania.
